In March 2006, the State Transportation Board approved the recommendations of the Pinal County Corridors Definition Study, which can be viewed at the following website <http://tpd.azdot.gov/planning/corridorstudies.php>. The recommendations approved by the Board included the North-South Freeway corridor between Apache Junction and the Florence-Coolidge area as shown below. Two corridor options were recommended for further consideration and a study is under way to evaluate and select a general location for the corridor. The purpose of this open house is to present the preliminary recommendations for the general location of the corridor.
